

Social Media Policy

The AMI invites comments and appreciates the time readers take to share ideas and provide feedback. Please know we do not have the bandwidth to reply to all comments received.

We want comments on our social media channels to be as useful and relevant as possible to all of our readers.

We will remove inappropriate comments, including, without limitation, those in the categories below:

- Harassing comments: all comments need to be respectful towards our contributors and those leaving comments
- Anonymous comments
- Promotional comments
- Copyright infringement and plagiarism/piracy of any nature
- Material copyrighted or trademarked by anyone other than the person posting the material requires permission from the copyright/trademark holder
- Encouraging or facilitating price-fixing or restraint of trade
- Offensive, inflammatory, defamatory, profane, libelous or ad hominem posts or attacks
- Threats of any kind, including those of a legal nature
- Posting of unauthorized private or personal information

The AMI is not liable for such postings by others, but the person/people making the comments may be at risk of civil litigation.

The AMI reserves the right to remove any comments and block any individuals from the site at any time.

Use of this social media channel constitutes agreement to the terms of this Policy Statement.
